

Discipline-Specific Writing Tasks

Today's Standard

11-12.WHST.10 - Write routinely over extended time frames (time for reflection and revision) and shorter time frames (a single sitting or a day or two) for a range of discipline-specific tasks, purposes, and audiences.

Cues	Notes
What are discipline-specific writing tasks?	Discipline-specific writing tasks are tailored to the requirements of different subjects.
Why is revision important?	Revision improves the clarity and coherence of all types of writing.
How does writing differ across disciplines?	Writing styles and formats vary across different disciplines. Examples include research papers, technical manuals, and lab reports.
What are some real-world applications of this standard?	Misconceptions include thinking that writing does not differ across disciplines and that revision is only for long-term projects.
What are common misconceptions about this standard?

Summary

Understanding and mastering discipline-specific writing tasks involve recognizing the unique requirements of different subjects, the importance of revision, and the various real-world applications of these skills.