Reading Informational Texts Proficiently

Today's Standard

2.RI.10 - By the end of year, read and comprehend informational texts, including history/social studies, science, and technical texts, in the grades 2–3 text complexity band proficiently, with scaffolding as needed at the high end of the range.

Cues	Notes
Main idea	Focus on understanding the main idea and key details of a text.
Key details	Use context clues to decipher the meaning of unfamiliar words.
Context clues	Informational texts can include articles, manuals, and biographies.
Informational text types	Reading a variety of informational texts helps build comprehension skills.
Text complexity

Summary

Understanding and comprehending informational texts involves focusing on main ideas and key details, using context clues, and being familiar with various types of informational texts.