Using Linking Words and Phrases

Today's Standard

3.W.2c - Use linking words and phrases (e.g., also, another, and, more, but) to connect ideas within categories of information.

Cues	Notes
Linking Words	Linking words connect ideas within categories of information.
Why use linking words?	They make writing more cohesive and coherent.
Examples of linking words	Examples include: also, another, and, more, but.
Common mistakes	Common mistakes: using words randomly or repeating the same word.
How to choose the right linking word	Choose the right word by considering the relationship between ideas.

Summary

Linking words are essential for connecting ideas in writing. They help make the text cohesive and coherent. Common mistakes include using them randomly or repetitively. It's important to choose the right linking word based on the relationship between ideas.