

Analyzing Points of View

Today's Standard

8.RL.6 - Analyze how differences in the points of view of the characters and the audience or reader (e.g., created through the use of dramatic irony) create such effects as suspense or humor.

Cues	Notes
What is point of view?	Point of view refers to the perspective from which a story is told.
What is dramatic irony?	Dramatic irony occurs when the audience knows something that the characters do not.
How does point of view affect a story?	Different points of view can create effects like suspense or humor.
Examples of suspense in literature	Suspense is often created when the audience knows something that the characters do not.
Examples of humor in literature	Humor can arise from characters' misunderstandings or dramatic irony.

Summary

Understanding different points of view and dramatic irony helps analyze how authors create effects like suspense and humor in literature.