

Improving Writing Through Revision

Today's Standard

8.W.5 - With some guidance and support from peers and adults, develop and strengthen writing as needed by planning, revising, editing, rewriting, or trying a new approach, focusing on how well purpose and audience have been addressed. (Editing for conventions should demonstrate command of Language standards 1-3 up to and including grade 8 here.)

Cues	Notes
What is the difference between revising and editing?	Revising focuses on content and structure, editing on grammar and conventions.
Why is it important to consider purpose and audience?	Purpose and audience guide the tone, style, and content of writing. Feedback provides new perspectives and suggestions for improvement.
How can feedback improve writing?	Steps include planning, drafting, revising, editing, and rewriting.
What are the steps in the writing process?

Summary

Improving writing involves multiple steps, including planning, revising, editing, and rewriting. Understanding the difference between revising and editing and considering purpose and audience are crucial. Feedback is a valuable tool for enhancing writing quality.