

Shared Research and Writing Projects

Today's Standard

K.W.7 - Participate in shared research and writing projects (e.g., explore a number of books by a favorite author and express opinions about them).

Cues	Notes
What is shared research?	Shared research involves working together to explore topics and create projects.
Why is it important?	It helps students learn to collaborate and value different perspectives.
How do we express opinions?	Students express opinions by discussing their thoughts and feelings about what they've read.
What are some activities?	Activities include reading books, discussing them, and creating class projects.
What misconceptions might arise?	Misconceptions include thinking opinions don't matter and that research is only about reading.

Summary

Shared research and writing projects help kindergarten students learn to collaborate, express opinions, and explore topics together. This standard lays the foundation for independent research and writing skills.
