

Informative Writing in History, Science, and Tech

Today's Standard

11-12.WHST.2 - Write informative/explanatory texts, including the narration of historical events, scientific procedures/experiments, or technical processes.

Real-World Applications for this Standard

Writing a research paper on a historical event; Documenting a scientific experiment; Creating a user manual for a technical device; Composing an article explaining a scientific process; Drafting a report on a technical project

Today I Learned

Today, we learned how to write texts that explain things, like telling a story about history, describing a science experiment, or explaining how something works.

Common Stumbling Blocks

Sometimes, kids think that writing about facts doesn't need a clear structure, but it does. They might also think that technical writing can't be interesting, but it can be engaging too.

Quiz Me

- What is informative writing?
- Why is it important to organize your writing?
- Can technical writing be interesting?
- What should you include in the introduction?
- Why do we need a conclusion?

Help Me

Writing informative texts helps us explain things clearly. We can use it to write about history, science, or how something works. It's important to make our writing interesting and easy to understand for everyone.