

Digital Writing and Publishing

Today's Standard

11-12.WHST.6 - Use technology, including the Internet, to produce, publish, and update individual or shared writing products in response to ongoing feedback, including new arguments or information.

Real-World Applications for this Standard

Creating and maintaining a blog with classmates; Collaborating on a research paper using online tools like Google Docs; Publishing articles or essays on educational platforms; Using social media to share and receive feedback on writing; Updating a class wiki with new information and arguments

Today I Learned

Today, we learned how to use computers and the internet to write and share our work. We can also update our writing when we get new ideas or feedback from others.

Common Stumbling Blocks

Sometimes, kids think that using technology for writing is just typing on a computer. They might also think that once something is online, it can't be changed. But we can use many tools to make our writing better and update it anytime.

Quiz Me

- What can we use the internet for in writing?
- Can we change our writing after we put it online?
- What tools can help us write with friends?
- Why is feedback important for our writing?
- How can technology make our writing better?

Help Me

We use computers and the internet to write and share our ideas. This helps us work with friends and make our writing better. For example, we can write a story together using Google Docs or share our essays on a class blog.
