

Effective Concluding Statements

Today's Standard

11-12.W.2f - Provide a concluding statement or section that follows from and supports the information or explanation presented (e.g., articulating implications or the significance of the topic).

Real-World Applications for this Standard

Writing a conclusion for a research paper; Summarizing findings in a scientific report; Concluding a persuasive essay; Wrapping up a business proposal; Ending a news article with relevant insights

Today I Learned

Today, we learned how to write a good ending for our essays. This helps us show why our topic is important.

Common Stumbling Blocks

Sometimes, kids think the ending is just a summary, but it should also tell why the topic matters. Another mistake is adding new information in the ending, which can confuse readers.

Quiz Me

- What is a conclusion?
- Why is it important?
- Should a conclusion add new information?
- What should a conclusion do besides summarizing?
- Can you give an example of a good conclusion?

Help Me

A conclusion is the ending of your writing. It should remind people about the important points and explain why they matter. For example, in a story about recycling, the conclusion might tell us how recycling helps our planet.
