Digital Writing and Publishing

Today's Standard

11-12.W.6 - Use technology, including the Internet, to produce, publish, and update individual or shared writing products in response to ongoing feedback, including new arguments or information.

Real-World Applications for this Standard

Creating and maintaining a blog; Collaborative writing using Google Docs; Publishing e-books or articles online; Using social media for writing and feedback; Participating in online writing communities

Today I Learned

Today, we learned how to use technology to write and share our work. This helps us get better by using feedback from others.

Common Stumbling Blocks

Some kids think using a computer to write is just like typing. Also, they might think feedback from the internet isn't as good as face-to-face. Both are not true.

Quiz Me

- What can you use to write on the computer?

- How can you share your writing with friends online?

- Why is feedback important?

- What is one tool you can use to write with others?

- How can you make your writing better?

Help Me

Using technology to write helps us share our ideas with many people. For example, you can write a story and share it on a blog or ask friends for feedback using Google Docs.
