

Story Elements Description

Today's Standard

1.RL.3 - Describe characters, settings, and major events in a story, using key details.

Real-World Applications for this Standard

Discussing characters and settings in bedtime stories.; Identifying key events in a favorite book.; Drawing scenes from a story and labeling characters.; Creating a simple story map with characters, settings, and events.

Today I Learned

Today, we learned about describing characters, settings, and major events in a story using key details. This helps us understand and enjoy stories better.

Common Stumbling Blocks

Sometimes, kids might think every detail in a story is important, which can be confusing. They might also have trouble seeing how characters, settings, and events are connected. We can help by asking questions and using story maps.

Quiz Me

- Who is the main character in the story?
- Where does the story take place?
- What is one big thing that happens in the story?
- Can you tell me something important about the character?
- What is the setting of the story?

Help Me

When we read stories, we can think about who is in the story, where it happens, and what big things happen. This helps us understand the story better. For example, when you watch a movie, you think about the characters, the places they go, and the exciting events. It's just like that with reading!
