Today I Learned

Today, we learned about making complete sentences. It's important to use complete sentences so we can give clear and detailed information.

Common Stumbling Blocks

Sometimes, kids think any sentence is okay, even if it's not complete. They might also think that longer sentences are always better. But, a complete sentence needs to have a subject and a predicate and make sense.

Help Me

A complete sentence helps us share our thoughts clearly. For example, when telling a story or giving directions, using complete sentences makes sure everyone understands what we mean. Practice by telling stories or explaining things to someone else using complete sentences.
