

Real-life word connections

Today's Standard

3.L.5b - Identify real-life connections between words and their use (e.g., describe people who are friendly or helpful).

Real-World Applications for this Standard

Describing a helpful neighbor; Identifying friendly behaviors in classmates; Discussing how a firefighter is brave; Explaining how a librarian is knowledgeable; Talking about a cheerful teacher

Today I Learned

Today, we learned how to find connections between words and real-life situations. For example, we can describe someone who helps others as 'helpful.'

Common Stumbling Blocks

Sometimes, kids might think words only have one meaning or that descriptive words aren't important. But words can have different meanings, and descriptive words make our conversations clearer.

Quiz Me

- What does 'friendly' mean?
- Can you name someone who is helpful?
- How would you describe a brave person?
- What is an example of a cheerful person?
- Why are descriptive words important?

Help Me

Descriptive words help us talk about the world. For example, if we say someone is 'friendly,' we know they are kind and nice to others. This helps us understand and describe people better.
