

Collaborative Discussions in Grade 3

Today's Standard

3.SL.1 - Engage effectively in a range of collaborative discussions (one-on-one, in groups, and teacher-led) with diverse partners on grade 3 topics and texts, building on others' ideas and expressing their own clearly.

Real-World Applications for this Standard

Classroom debates on book readings; Group projects on science topics; Peer review sessions for writing assignments; Role-playing activities to practice dialogue; Group brainstorming sessions for creative writing; Teacher-led discussions on current events

Today I Learned

Today, we learned about how to talk and listen to others in a group. We practiced sharing our ideas and listening to what our friends had to say.

Common Stumbling Blocks

Sometimes, kids think only their ideas are important or that they always have to agree with others. It's important to listen to everyone's ideas and know that it's okay to disagree respectfully.

Quiz Me

- What is one thing you should do before sharing your idea?
- How can you show that you are listening to someone?
- Is it okay to disagree with someone in a discussion?
- What should you do if you don't understand what someone said?
- Why is it important to listen to others' ideas?

Help Me

Talking and listening in a group is like working together on a team. You share your ideas, listen to your friends, and sometimes you might not agree, but that's okay. It's important to talk about why you think differently and learn from each other.
