Today I Learned

Today, we learned how to write stories about real or made-up events. We use good writing tricks, details, and make sure the story makes sense from start to finish.

Common Stumbling Blocks

Sometimes, kids think stories can only be made up. But stories can be about real things too, like personal experiences. Also, stories need a clear start, middle, and end, not just random events.

Quiz Me

- What is a narrative?
- Can a narrative be about real events?
- What are the parts of a story?
- Why do we need details in our stories?
- How do we make sure our story makes sense?

Help Me

Writing stories helps us share our experiences and imaginations. We can write about real-life events or make up stories. Using details and organizing our story well helps others understand and enjoy it.
