

Research and Citation Skills

Today's Standard

9-10.W.8 - Gather relevant information from multiple authoritative print and digital sources, using advanced searches effectively; assess the usefulness of each source in answering the research question; integrate information into the text selectively to maintain the flow of ideas, avoiding plagiarism and following a standard format for citation.

Real-World Applications for this Standard

Writing research papers; Creating annotated bibliographies; Developing presentations with cited sources; Conducting literature reviews; Evaluating sources for academic projects

Today I Learned

Today, we learned how to find good information from books and the internet, check if it's useful, and use it in our work without copying.

Common Stumbling Blocks

Sometimes, kids think that everything on the internet is true, but that's not always right. They also might think that if they change the words of something they read, they don't have to say where it came from. But they do!

Quiz Me

- What do you need to do when you find information online?
- How do you know if a source is good?
- What is it called when you use someone else's ideas without saying?
- What should you do if you change the words of something you read?
- Why is it important to say where you got your information?

Help Me

When you do a project, you need to find good information from books and the internet. Make sure the information is true and useful. Always say where you got your information to be fair and honest.
