

Basic Letter-Sound Correspondence

Today's Standard

K.RF.3a - Demonstrate basic knowledge of one-to-one letter-sound correspondences by producing the primary sound or many of the most frequent sounds for each consonant.

Real-World Applications for this Standard

Identifying initial sounds in words during storytime; Sounding out letters in everyday words on signs and labels; Playing phonics games that focus on consonant sounds; Using letter tiles to form simple words; Reading simple CVC (consonant-vowel-consonant) words

Today I Learned

Today, we learned about the sounds that letters make. Each letter can make different sounds, and knowing these sounds helps us read words.

Common Stumbling Blocks

Sometimes kids think each letter only makes one sound, but that's not true. Also, some letters sound similar, like 'b' and 'd', which can be confusing.

Quiz Me

- What sound does the letter 'b' make?
- Can the letter 'c' make different sounds?
- What sound does the letter 'd' make?
- Can you find a word that starts with 'm'?
- What sound does the letter 'f' make?

Help Me

Knowing the sounds of letters helps us read words we see every day, like on signs or in books. When we know that 'c' can sound like 'cat' or 'cent', we can read better!
