

Connecting Ideas in Texts

Today's Standard

K.RI.3 - With prompting and support, describe the connection between two individuals, events, ideas, or pieces of information in a text.

Real-World Applications for this Standard

Discussing the relationship between two characters in a story.; Identifying the sequence of events in a simple historical account.; Connecting ideas from a text to students' personal experiences.; Comparing two different events described in a text.; Explaining how two pieces of information in a text are related.

Today I Learned

Today, we learned about how to describe connections between people, events, ideas, or information in a text. This helps us understand the story better.

Common Stumbling Blocks

Sometimes, kids think connections can only be between similar things, like two characters. They might also think connections are always clearly stated in the text. But connections can be between different things, and sometimes we have to figure them out ourselves.

Quiz Me

- Can you tell me how two characters in the story are connected?
- What happened first in the story?
- How are these two events related?
- Can you think of a time when something similar happened to you?
- What did we learn from the text?

Help Me

We learned that we can find connections between different parts of a text, like people, events, or ideas. This helps us understand what we read better. For example, if we read about two friends in a story, we can talk about how their actions affect each other.
